

About Us

The Coventry Family History Society was formed in 1994 to fulfil a growing local need for resources and mutual assistance.

It has flourished by providing help and support to a growing number of people researching their ancestors. All are welcomed, beginners and experts alike.

Our main contact for people outside the Coventry area is through our quarterly journal where you can advertise your interests.

As genealogy on the internet has expanded it has become easier to carry out research from a distance. However, we provide additional information from local sources not available elsewhere.

The Society also offers postal search facilities.

Project work is an integral part of our activities. Some are part of national schemes, but most are Coventry related and all are designed to help in the general pursuit of our research.

We have a library of books for loan to members.

The Society is now benefitting from past project work completed by members, which has resulted in the publication of books, and CDs.
